Dear Hiring Manager,

I am pleased to be applying for the Software Engineering Manager position at Twilio.

Mission of Twilio and scope of your business looks very interesting and attractive to me. Opportunity to contribute to good "customer-at-the-core" products which makes world better by creating complex and technological things is exactly the opportunity I'm chasing right now. I consider job not only as a source of livelihood, but mostly part of my life and source of personal satisfaction of creating great products on the edge of the technology. It seems to me I can find this in Twilio. Considering mentioned above I decided to apply to Software Engineering Manager position.

Having almost 12 years of IT background in both B2C and Operations of FMCG company dealing with project, service and people management, I'm looking for opportunities to get closer to the software development domain. Despite the fact I have been developing people management skills I do my best to preserve all my technical skills, expertise and knowledge by coding during out of work time for personal pleasure and satisfaction. Solid management background and technical expertise make me a great candidate for this position. I would love to have an opportunity to share more details about my previous experience, answering your questions and learning more about this position.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,
Nikolai
